SWANSON FLAYS THE REPUBLICANS

Democratic Leader Has Fine Reception at the Academy.

LOVE FEAST OF PARTY BRETHREN

Gubernatorial Nominee Declares That Disaster and Desolation Have Followed Republicans in Southern States—Sarcastic in References to Shaw and Slomp.

Congressman Claude A. Swanson, Democratic nominee for Governor, made a powerful and eloquent speech for his ticket before a large audience in the Academy of Music last night, and he was given a splendid ovation, which not only indicates his own popularity, but pre-figures harmonious action on the part of the Democrats of this city at the coming general election.

The occasion may very properly be termed a Democratic love feast, for the audience was composed of party men without reference to past differences, while on the stage were leaders prominent in all forms of party activity, and there were many prominent ladies in the boxes and in the audience as well.

One incident which foretold harmony of action was the introduction of the permanent presiding officer, Hon. J. Taylor Elyson, Democratic Commissioner for the high office of Hon. James Alston Cabell, his unsuccessful competitor in the recent primary.

Cabell's Kind Words.

Mr. Cabell said in part: The conflict we have just had in Virginia, the struggle for supremacy within our own ranks, has led the enemy to believe we have been weakened by bitterness and strife, and that dissensions and disloyalty will follow. Our little fight was but the exercise of the giant testing and proving the strength and power of his mighty army.

The bugle call is arousing the old sleeping cohorts of Democracy as they have not been aroused for many a year. From every city and village and county green can be heard the tread of the army of the incorruptible, untainted and unconquerable Democracy, assembling for the fray, and as the hour of conflict approaches, our ranks close up, and we will present an unbroken front to battle for a common cause against a common enemy.

But I am not here to-night to make a speech, but only to call this meeting to order, and to introduce the permanent chairman of the evening. I will not say introduce, because the gentleman who is to preside to-night was born and reared in your midst, and his name is known to every Democrat not only in the city of Richmond, but in the State of Virginia.

For many years he has presided over the councils of the Democratic party as its State Chairman, and as a reward for his services the party has made him one of its standard-bearers, and nominated him to the high office of Lieutenant-Governor of Virginia. Gentlemen, I present to you the chairman of the evening, Hon. J. Taylor Elyson.

In a Happy Vein.

Mr. Elyson spoke briefly but in a happy vein, throwing bouquets both to the front and rear.

"I am grateful to the temporary chairman," he said, "for his most gracious introduction, and to the City Committee for the honor they have done me in designating me as the permanent presiding officer of the evening."

We have assembled to inaugurate the Democratic campaign in the capital city of the Old Dominion.

He could not have done so under brighter auspices. The presence of so many of our fair women and brave men is in itself a happy augury of success. We are most fortunate in having as our speaker a distinguished son of the old Commonwealth, who after a generous contest, conducted alike with courage and courtesy, has won the right to be the standard bearer of the Democratic hosts of Virginia. He is a noble son of a worthy sire, who, when the bugle call to arms was sounded in 1861, reported for duty, and served his country well until her flag was furled forever on the fatal field of Appomattox. The father never deserted his colors during the war, and his son has never deserted his people since the war.

We will win this fight and it will be in one small measure due to the fact that we have as our nominee for Governor, that gallant and valiant soldier, Claude A. Swanson, who has been elected to duty, and served his country well until her flag was furled forever on the fatal field of Appomattox. The father never deserted his colors during the war, and his son has never deserted his people since the war.

Mr. Swanson was given a splendid ovation when he arose to speak. He expressed his gratitude to the speakers preceding him for their complimentary references to himself, and paid them the most deserved tributes. He declared he was the candidate of no faction but of a united and harmonious Democracy, which had buried past differences, and was standing for party principles in a common brotherhood for the common good.

"I desire to impress upon you the vast importance of this election," continued the speaker. "Not in years has there been one in this State so highly important to the people of Virginia."

"What have we involved?" "We are fighting for our splendid school system, as well as for the management of all the asylums of our State."

"You must determine whether the Democrats or Republicans shall appoint and control the policy of your splendid State Corporation Commission, which has con-

CONGRESS MAY GIVE A MILLION

Will Try to Get Further Appropriation for Jamestown.

HARRY TUCKER MAY GO ABROAD

Will Probably Try to Interest Great Britain in the Great Event—General Fitzhugh Lee Was to Have Made the Trip.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., October 9.—It is quite noticeable that the Jamestown Exposition project is being much more discussed in the past two or three days than formerly. It was probably owing to the recent announcement of the decision of Hon. Harry St. George Tucker to accept the presidency of the company.

The action of Mr. Tucker has had the effect of renewing confidence in the ultimate success of the enterprise. He is recognized by all who know him as being peculiarly fitted for the duties of the position, which will take him to many State capitals, where legislatures are in session, and may take him abroad. Mr. Tucker's powers of persuasion will also have to be used in Washington this winter in the grand effort which will be made to induce the Congress to make another appropriation for the support of the ter-centenary celebration. The $250,000 appropriated last year will do no more than pay the cost of a naval and military demonstration in and around Hampton Roads.

May Get a Million.

At least a million dollars should be appropriated by the Congress for the purpose of enabling the government to have an exhibit at the exposition. It is going to take hard work to get this amount, but there is no man in Virginia better suited to its direction than is Mr. Tucker. His long service in Congress from the Tenth Virginia District and his intimate familiarity with the machinery of legislation, together with his wide acquaintance with members of both branches of Congress, will make the labor necessary to securing an appropriation come comparatively easy to him.

Mr. Tucker has been to England and to do in the matter of securing government aid, but the company will feel assured, when his labors are ended, that no man could have done more. And he will come very near to succeeding.

When General Lee died, he had under consideration the plan to order for the purpose of interesting European governments in the exposition. He had several conferences on the subject with General Sir Thomas Fraser, of the British army, who visited this city last spring. The latter urged him to go to England and attempt to interest the British government and people in the enterprise, assuring him that it would be comparatively an easy matter to induce Englishmen to take a part in the celebration of the anniversary of the founding of the first Anglo-Saxon settlement in the Western Hemisphere. General Lee was about decided to undertake the trip when he was stricken, dying within a day. Mr. Tucker will probably undertake this feature of the work.

Foreign Countries.

Several of the foreign governments have indicated a desire to be represented at the exposition. The British press has been generally in the opinion that Great Britain should be represented. Of course, all nations will have warships in Hampton Roads at the time of the celebration, but Mr. Tucker and those co-operating with him will see to it that the names of the ships and the names of the officers will be on the list of the exhibitors on the shores of the Roads. Japan is manifesting great interest in the exposition, and will be among the first of the foreign powers to indicate a willingness to be represented.

But Mr. Tucker and those associated with him have done so under brighter auspices. The presence of so many of our fair women and brave men is in itself a happy augury of success. We are most fortunate in having as our speaker a distinguished son of the old Commonwealth, who after a generous contest, conducted alike with courage and courtesy, has won the right to be the standard bearer of the Democratic hosts of Virginia. He is a noble son of a worthy sire, who, when the bugle call to arms was sounded in 1861, reported for duty, and served his country well until her flag was furled forever on the fatal field of Appomattox. The father never deserted his colors during the war, and his son has never deserted his people since the war.

SHAW AND DANIEL AT LEXINGTON, VA.

They Address the Students of Washington and Lee University.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) LEXINGTON, VA., October 9.—Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw spent the day in Lexington, reaching here at 10 o'clock this morning and leaving at 7 o'clock this evening. He was met on his arrival at the station by General Scott Shipp, superintendent of Virginia Military Institute; Dr. George H. Denny, president of Washington and Lee University; and Captain Samuel B. Waller, mayor of Lexington, who drove to the Lee Memorial Chapel of Washington and Lee, where Secretary Shaw addressed the assembly. He was introduced by Dr. Denny. The distinguished visitor expressed his pleasure at being in Lexington. He gave some timely advice to the young men who received his address with enthusiasm. The keynote of his address was that every man should pay the price of success, quoting the words of another he said, "Nature keeps a one price store. Whoever lays down the price gets the goods."

At the conclusion of Secretary Shaw's address, Senator Dr. Denny and he made a brief but delicious speech, and counseled the students to habits of industry and perseverance.

Secretary Shaw this afternoon witnessed the dress parade and drill of the Virginia Military Institute cadets. State Chairman Slomp accompanied the party to Lexington.

A FIELD DAY IN OLD ROCKBRIDGE

Daniel, Flood and Glass Raise Democrats to High State of Enthusiasm.

SENATOR GIVEN BIG OVATION

While the Two Congressmen Make Spirited Speeches in Defense of Democracy.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) LEXINGTON, VA., October 9.—The Democrats of Rockbridge are in high feather at the outcome of to-day's speaking by three of Virginia's spell-binding Senators John W. Daniel and Congressman Carter Glass and H. D. Flood.

The meeting was held in the courthouse, which was crowded to the doors, many ladies gracing the occasion with their presence. Music was furnished by the Virginia Military Institute Band. County Democratic Chairman Frank Moore called the meeting to order and introduced Representative Flood, of this district, who presented Representative Glass. Mr. Flood delivered one of his characteristic speeches. He referred to the spirited campaign preceding the primary, in which the various Democratic aspirants contested for high honors at the hands of Virginia Democracy, and out of which the various candidates, victorious and defeated, had emerged united and harmonious for the success of the nominees.

Made Respectable.

The Republican party, he said, claims now to be a respectable party, a white man's party, but they do not give credit to Virginia Democracy and the late Constitutional Convention for making them so by disfranchising the negro.

MRS. ROOSEVELT MAY ALSO COME

Mayor and Chairman Go to Washington to Complete Details.

WILL BRING CADETS FREE OF CHARGE

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company Offers to Have V. M. I. Boys Here to Meet the President—Formation of Parade and Explicit Directions.

Somewhat of a flurry was caused yesterday in local councilmanic circles by the discovery of a possibility, heretofore not taken into account that Mrs. Roosevelt will accompany the President upon his visit to Richmond next week.

The suggestion, which, if it proves well founded, will necessitate a number of radical changes in the arrangements for the welcome to the President, is decidedly vague, but comes with sufficient appearance of accuracy to cause the Council committee which is officially directing the plans to sit up and take notice. It is understood that Mayor McCarthy and Captain W. H. Curtis, chairman of the committee, will leave on the noon train to-day for Washington, to look into the matter and at the same time to satisfy themselves concerning some other points not entirely clear. If Mrs. Roosevelt should be of the party it will, of course, be necessary at once to change the programme so as to provide plans for her entertainment.

Up to last night the only information the committee had received concerning this party was that it would consist of ten people, including the President, his secretary and his physician. The names of the others were given.

It was also learned yesterday that the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway has offered free of charge a special train to bring to Richmond on the day of the President's visit the V. M. I. cadets, numbering about 25. This offer is dependent upon the action of the Governor, who has authority to order the cadets out. The Council committee, it is understood, is strongly disposed to accept the offer to arrange for taking care of the cadets while here, and to request the Governor to issue the order.

Plans Nearly Complete.

Definite information obtained yesterday makes it possible to give in practically all its details the arrangements made for entertaining and guarding the President during his stay in Richmond.

The train will arrive at the Main-Street

AN ELOPEMENT IS FOILED BY 'PHONE

Grandfather Prevents Victor and Freda Becoming Man and Wife.

PRETTY GIRL OF FIFTEEN

Her Intended Husband Looked But Very Little Her Senior.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., October 9.—Miss Freda Ayers and Victor Mullen, both of Loudoun county, were arrested when they reached Washington at nearly midnight Sunday, detained at the police station all night, and the would-be bride was taken back home by her grandfather to-day.

The telephone did it. Had it not been for the line from Washington Grove, Montgomery county, Maryland, to this city, the couple would be man and wife to-day.

Freda is fifteen years old, and as pretty as any picture the most cultured art connoisseur could call to mind. Victor is twenty-two years old, but he does not look more than does Freda. He had been paying attention to Freda for some time, but had never declared his love in words. Yesterday they met at church, and the ardent swain could no longer resist the charms of the maiden. It took the girl about a minute to make him understand that she cared enough for him to take the name he offered.

Proposed Elopement.

Having made such rapid progress, Victor dared to propose an immediate elopement. He surmised correctly that Freda's grandfather, with whom she lived,

BAR EDGAR ALLAN POE FROM HALL OF FAME

Horace Greeley, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Others Also Defeated.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, October 9.—In the second election for the Hall of Fame to-day only three names were chosen to receive ballots in the five classes.

The election was completed, those of John Greenleaf Whittier and James Russell Lowell in the class of authors, and that of General William T. Sherman in the class of soldiers. Among the defeated were Oliver Wendell Holmes, Edgar Allan Poe, and James Fenimore Cooper, William Cooper, William Mullen Bryant, Francis Parkman and John L. Motley, Horace Greeley and George Bancroft.

DISSOLUTION OF NORWAY AND SWEDEN AGREED TO

(By Associated Press.) CHRISTIANIA, NORWAY, October 10.—After two days spent in excited discussion the Storting at 3:30 o'clock this morning, proceeded to a division on the proposal of the Republican minority to submit the Karstad agreement concerning the dissolution of the Union between Norway and Sweden to a referendum. The proposal was rejected by a vote of 100 to 8. The agreement was then accepted by a vote of 101 to 18. This is a great victory for the government.

THE PRESIDENT AND FOOTBALL

He Is Seeking to Eliminate the Brutality if Possible.

SEES PRINCETON AND YALE MEN

The Man Who Brought Peace to Russia and Japan Now Seeks to Save Life and Limb of the People in the United States.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, October 9.—President Roosevelt entertained at luncheon to-day Dr. D. H. Nichols and W. T. Reid, of Harvard; Arthur Hillebrand and John B. Fine, of Princeton, and Walter Camp and Mr. Owsley, of Yale. The six guests of the President constitute the athletic advisers of the respective colleges named.

The President desired to consider with them particularly the morale of the game of football, with a view to eliminating much of its brutality, if possible. A general discussion of college athletics was had, but the talk centered around the game of football.

It is hoped by the President that, with the co-operation of the college authorities and the athletic advisers, rules of the game may be so amended as practically to do away with much of the brutality, which makes the game objectionable to many people.

It is understood that no definite conclusions were reached. Indeed, none was expected, the idea of the President being simply to start the ball rolling in the direction of a modification of the rules of the game.

Governor Glenn will accompany the President during his entire stay in North Carolina.

A FOOTBALL PLAYER DIES OF HIS INJURIES

An Operation Which Was Performed on Him Proved to Be of No Avail.

FARMVILLE, VA., October 9.—Howard G. Montgomery, who was injured in the football practice at Hampden-Sydney College last Tuesday afternoon, died this morning a little after 4 o'clock. His injury, caused by paralysis of his lower body. He was operated on Saturday by Dr. George Ben Johnston, of Richmond, and Dr. Wysox, of Clifton Forge, as a last resort. Mr. Montgomery was just twenty-one years of age, and this was his third season as a member of the Hampden-Sydney team. His personality was exceedingly attractive, and he was one of the most popular students at the college. His untimely death has produced a profound effect on his fellow students, who, together with the entire faculty, escorted the remains this afternoon to the passenger station in Farmville.

Services were held in the college chapel just before the procession started for this place. They were conducted by Rev. J. Gray McAllister, president of the college, and Dr. James Murray, member of the faculty. Mr. S. H. Montgomery, of Montgomery, Va., father of the deceased, was with him for several days before he died, as were also his little sister, Miss Julia Montgomery, and two aunts.

The remains were taken this evening to the home in West Virginia.

Features for To-Night.

- Class 33—Saddle Horses, 8:15 P. M.
- Class 26—Harness Horses (No Vice Class), 8:25 P. M.

- Class 42—Pairs of Hunters, 10:35 P. M.

Across the tan bark to-night, as the bugle note sounds, half drowned in cheers and music, a string of thoroughbreds, sniffing victory, keen and eager for the start, will put forth with the assurance of the first comers, and the fifth Richmond Horse Show will be on for five nights and a day.

With but a few hours intervening before the opening of the long-awaited exhibition, the prospects for its great success were never brighter. Final estimates, based upon the actual sale of seats up to this time and the manifest enthusiasm which may be taken to ensure a steady run upon the box office from day to day until the end, promise attendance that will unquestionably be record-breaking, both in point of size and brilliancy. The performance itself will be no less notable. In the fifty-four classes arranged, one hundred and fifty horses are entered, a goodly lot, some of them bearing famous names and high-sounding records, and all of them, it is estimated, of them are out, six withdrawn, and five sick and unfit for the ring. The remainder of the lot, one hundred and thirty-nine, all told, will be in the arena, half again as many almost as there were last year, and more by far than have ever appeared at one time in a Southern city.

The showing at the opening is significant. As it is, the exhibition is the largest ever planned outside of the great Northern centers—a fact which only yesterday, when the final casting about was made, seemed almost beyond all possibility of doubt upon the local contingent. No show ever held in this State or the entire South before can claim a place in the same class with it, and this notwithstanding the fact that the Grosvenor stable of twenty-eight horses was withdrawn, named Garber and Garber entries were cancelled, and a portion of the string of George Watson, of New York, is disabled and cannot appear. Had all of these horses remained on the list the fifth Richmond show would have been one of the greatest ever held in the United States.

Horses on Ground.

During yesterday the arrivals practically filled the stables and certainly by the early afternoon to-day every horse entered in the show will be on the ground. The finishing touches were put to the building during the day and the minutest detail was perfected, making everything ready for the entry of the first class at 8 P. M. sharp. The interior has been decorated with flags and bunting, and the boxes painted a gleaming white. A myriad of electric globes arched across the arena and scattered throughout the place will furnish a brilliant illumination.

Hundreds of people visited the building yesterday during the afternoon and early evening, congregating along the railings, walking through the stalls and poking cautious noses into the boxes where the thoroughbreds stood knee-deep in straw, it is needless to say, and the admiration of the throng. C. W. Watson's fine string came in for a lot of attention at every point and more particularly when the Marylanders, the famous four were driven out by Fowles, the noted whip. Two of this four are "Virginia" and "West Virginia," names to conjure with, and in fact as likely a pair as will show in the ring here this year.

The high-jumping "Weatherboard," holder of the world's record, was, of course, a favorite, exciting the admiration of many riders, for exercise, as he paraded across the bars.

The pony stables were the mecca of the mothers and children, and big, wandering eyes looked long at many a shaggy little mare, while pursed lips and rosy cheeks told of worlds of longing. Nearly all the horses were taken out during the day for exercise, and a little distance of being used. Many of the people gathered here without entering the building at all. State boys and grooms were busy from morning to night—a swarm of them spreading through the stables.

The Opening Night.

The opening night will introduce nine classes, and some of the best known horses on the lists. The bugle call will bring into the arena at 8 o'clock eight harnesses, including Carlisle's English, C. W. Watson's Virginia, West Virginia, C. W. Watson's Virginia, West Virginia, C. W. Watson's Virginia, and the two horses owned by Henry Fairfax. Following these will come in regular order saddle horses, a novice class for horses, harness, tandems, class for horses, light-weight hunters, and pairs of hunters.
